RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

I have a Masters in surgical science, with distinction, from University College London (2002), based at the Tissue Repair and Engineering Centre, Institute of Orthopaedics, Stanmore. I was awarded the professors' prize for best thesis for the investigation into human scarring.

The thesis title was Quantitative Analysis of Collagen Remodelling: An In-vitro Model of Wound Contracture.
Exp Cell Res 2006, 312 (4): 423 – 433

During my studies, I also completed a second research project Molecular Mechanisms of Nerve Cell Death Following Injury and comparative anatomy cadaver study titled The Anatomy of Precision and Power Grips in the Human Hand: An Evolutionary Perspective.
